Quotes: RGBColor est e pluribus unus RGB is a work about the exploration of the “surface’s deepness”. RGB designs create surfaces that mutate and interact with different chromatic stimulus. Carnovsky's RGB is an ongoing project that experiments with the interaction between printed and light colours. The resulting images are unexpected and disorienting. The colors mix up, the lines and shapes entwine becoming oneiric and not completely clear. Through a colored filter (a light or a transparent material) it is possible to see clearly the layers in which the image is composed. The filter's colors are red, green and blue, each one of them serves to reveal one of the three layers. RGB first installation has been shown during Milan Design Week 2010 at J&V showroom

Ausstellung: „Conversations“ 2013

Ort: Aspen Art Museum

Quotes: Entitled Conversations, the exhibition is structured around the conversations that take place between colors, objects, viewers, and the architectural spaces they occupy together.

Fisher's paintings and painting installations investigate systems of perspective and color relations; the shape, thickness, and orientation of each painting; the position of the viewer; and, especially, the relationships between paintings or groups of paintings and the architectural spaces that they occupy.
